Mr. Henry's Class shows love and appreciation for the horses they ride.

Students in Mr. Henry's class from Lounsberry Hollow put it perfectly how they feel about the horses they ride at Winslow Therapeutic Center.

Dear Horses of Winslow,

First of all, I know you might not be able to read this. I also know you can feel these kind thoughts and messages through those great big hearts that heaven has given you. This is suppose to rhyme a bit:

You're all terrific teachers with four good luck charms under you feet.
You all truly deserve a fine sweetened treat.

On Comet, with students upon your back,

Instilling confidence is your given knack,

On Orion so high
A constellation star,

On Duke, sits a young special cowboy,
Riding his real life horse toy,

On Dot, Pepsi, Strawberry, Vulgrin (whose name might be mis-spelled),
You all bring such fun,
You all provide life-long self worth as your work gets done

On Woodstock where students get such thrills
Happiness and pride as they are taught many skills,

Neal with the main all upright and straight
"Good posture" special kid as he goes for a gait

Your caregivers and friends walk with you in the ring,
Upon your back a student might burst out and sing,

You hear grunts and objections and can sense student fears,
But each time you're there showing students they're dear.

Each night you're all nestled in a hey strewn stall,
Sorta like a baby born about this seasonal time, after all,

If you can't read this message you'll feel the love through your eyes,
But if you know how to read it will not be a surprise,
Your smart and clever and have no match,
You can even open your own locked stall latch!

I am not sure but I do rather suspect,

That you're as kind and strong as you are
From the care that you get.
So I will end this note of seasonal affection
By thanking all the two legged blessings,
Whose work at Winslow's is giving loving direction.

Love,
All those who are strengthened and enriched from the therapy that you give!

Ps. The Horses told me they do not care about rhythming words, they just want the thought to be sincere. The equestrian affection here is most very sincere!

PSS. Hey 1492, the thoughts in this message of 2006 will continue on longer than your name. I'm not horsing around either.
